

BUSINESS CHAMPIONS

Companies and corporate principals that help keep our community at the commercial forefront

Valerie Landry

Valerie Landry, General Manager of The Sanford House Inn and Spa, has been involved with the storied local institution almost as long as she has been around. In fact, she began working there when her grandparents built The Sanford House some two and a half decades ago.

"I've done just about every job that could be done, from pulling the weeds to cleaning the rooms to serving the Rooney family [of Pittsburgh Steeler fame] during the Super Bowl," Landry says. "After I graduated from college, I moved back to Arlington and began working as the Spa Director and Marketing Director for the company. Soon after that, we remodeled the property to accommodate our restaurant and bar, and I shifted into my current role as General Manager."

Most recently, she worked to ensure that Restaurant506 remains one of the best restaurants in the city and helped launch a marketing campaign for the inn and its various facets to keep them front and center in peoples' minds - during a pandemic, no less.

On the restaurant front, Landry and The Sanford House team have undertaken a variety of endeavors to continually enhance the renowned eatery, which has won Diner's Choice awards from Open Table each of the past four years and which was also honored by Open Table for offering one of the top 100 brunches in the nation. Restaurant506 is open to the public for dining and is located in The Sanford House Manor.

"Restaurant506 combines classic cooking methods with fresh ingredients to create delicious tasting food that is artfully presented," Landry notes. "Together with our attentive team of servers, we strive to be sure that your experience at our restaurant is absolutely perfect."

Landry schedules regular themed events at the restaurant to attract guests and to enhance the bond Restaurant506 has with the community. The restaurant hosts wine dinners in concert with local wineries, teams two favorites with its "Brunch and Yoga" specials and makes a big splash each year to help local patrons celebrate Restaurant Week. There's something for someone, pretty much every month of the year.

While ensuring that Restaurant506 remains a focal point for Landry, it's just one of the hats she wears as General Manager of

The Sanford House. She also handles administration and promotion of the inn, which offers luxurious accommodations for overnight stays.

The Sanford House also has the capability to host magnificent outdoor events on the Grand Courtyard or smaller intimate social affairs indoors.

Then there is the Sanford Spa, which is a full-service spa and salon that offers full body, facial, and nail services for special occasions or "just because."

Landry says she is devoted to making sure that people who visit The Sanford House - any facet of it - come away not only pleased with their "Sanford House experience" but so enamored that they make a point to return.

"Our passion for customer service is what sets us apart as special," she says.

In addition to her career, Landry is very active in the community, serving as a past Chair of the Downtown Arlington Management Corporation Board, and she was a member of the Leadership North Texas Class 9. She has also served on the Board of Directors for the Greater Arlington Chamber of Commerce and has served in various capacities with the Chamber of Commerce Women's Alliance and with the Junior League of Arlington.

She is past president of the Downtown Arlington Rotary and previously served as Assistant Governor for Rotary District 5790. She has also served on the Board of Symphony Arlington and was in Leadership Arlington's Class of 2009.

Andrew Duinick, Headmaster of Great Hearts Arlington, following a successful launch of their newest campus in August 2021.

Great Hearts Arlington: A classical public school

Great Hearts Arlington, the newest addition to a revolutionary network of tuition-free, in person and online public schools dedicated to improving education nationwide, successfully opened in August 2021 to grades Kindergarten-7th - and will add a grade each year until it is a full K-12 campus.

Located at 6701 S. Cooper St., Great Hearts Arlington provides an honors level liberal arts curriculum in the tradition of the finest independent private schools. As such, they offer an outstanding opportunity for families who want the very best in a college preparatory institution.

A Great Hearts education prepares students to be more than just proficient test takers, but, rather, to become great-hearted leaders capable of success throughout their higher education and professional careers. Great Hearts emphasizes that in order for students to become great-hearted leaders they must share in a knowledge that is rooted in the classical liberal arts tradition. The life of a Great Hearts Arlington scholar is one that is rich and varied and gives them the opportunity to build relationships with their peers outside of the classroom, contribute to their school community, and develop healthy habits and virtues like friendship, citizenship, and humility.

At Great Hearts, the primary tool of cultivating knowledge and virtue in their students is the Socratic Method. In this timeless teaching technique, the teacher uses questions and conversation to guide students from what they already know to what they do not yet know in all subjects. The development of the academic habit of logical inquiry feeds students' sense of wonder and creates life-long learners. In the end, the communal pursuit of truth, goodness, and beauty inspires and shapes students into the best versions of themselves, setting in motion growth that will continue the rest of their lives.

Prince Lebanese Grill

Years from now, the good folks who make Prince Lebanese Grill one of Arlington's favorite restaurants will likely recall the fall of 2021 with great fondness. The vastly popular eatery was featured in Texas Monthly magazine, restaurant Manager Aziz Kobty and the team were chosen to serve as the celebrity chef for the Dallas Cowboys' home opener at AT&T Stadium, and the Kobty family was inducted into the Arlington Highlands Rotary Club as honorary members.

And those were just September highlights.

They are also testaments to way the community embraces the restaurant, known for its outstanding food, superior service and a heart for paying back those with whom they live and work.

In August, Prince Lebanese Grill earned its fourth straight Arlington Today readers' choice All Star honor. It has been earning – and maintaining – the business of hungry Texans since 1989, providing a veritable home away from home for virtually every one who dines there.

That's likely because of the family atmosphere at the heart of the eatery. Patriarch Francis Kobty, who recently passed, started the restaurant; his son Aziz became the manager after graduating from college and handles marketing; and daughter Elizabeth heads day-to-day operations. Completing the team is mother Amira, who makes sure everyone involved with Prince Lebanese Grill is devoted to both the quality of the dining experience and to the customers who get to experience it.

"Our vision at Prince is top-quality food, reasonable prices and a family environment," Aziz says. "Prince Lebanese Grill's philosophy is to take care of others. From the customers to the staff we strive to treat everyone like family."

The practice concentrates in family legal issues, including divorce, modifications, custody, child support, spousal support, visitation, enforcement of custody/support, paternity and stepparent adoption.

Throughout her career, Stephanie has focused on family law.

"My professional philosophy is divorce with dignity," she says, noting that she has taken many special measures to serve her clients in the best manner possible. "I was one of the first attorneys trained in collaborative law in 2008. Collaborative Law is a way to divorce with dignity with no court and no war."

Dr. Kenyon Godwin

These are exciting times for Dr. Kenyon Godwin, both with regard to his popular wellness practice and to his role as one of the area's foremost commercial leaders. On the former front, Dr. Godwin recently joined the Curis Functional Health team, which will now count his two Arlington offices among its healthcare resource centers located in the North Texas area. Just as importantly, Dr. Godwin is the Chair Elect for The Greater Arlington Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Godwin says the move to Curis Functional Health was a natural extension of his long-held quest to improve the lives of area residents. "Curis Functional Health is growing and focused on providing complete holistic patient-centered care within the communities they serve," he says.

"Several of the offices that have joined the group reached out and invited us to join this prestigious group. I love the model: chiropractic, counseling, and functional nutrition. The model is in alignment with my model of mind, body, and spirit. The people and teams involved are awesome, and the potential to advance the health status of our community leveraging the resources of a group is exciting.

Though the practice isn't called Active Family Wellness Center any more, Dr. Godwin says the change for practice members is minimal. "The name and branding is changing," he says. "It is the same team, same excellent service, but with additional services and team members!"

Curis Functional Health has four offices, including Dr. Godwin's two offices in Arlington. "What that means," he says, "is that we can now leverage each other's strengths and refer for specific issues."

The other big news regarding the good doctor is his new role with the Chamber. "I will be helping our business community continue to develop and grow economically," he explains. "I'm excited to be involved on this level to provide insight and ideas to the business community of the American Dream City. This extends to our partners in education and other non-profit organizations."

When Dr. Godwin says he is excited, that's no exaggeration. Rare is the moment that he doesn't have a smile on his face or pep in his step. He says that's simply because he feels called to do all the positive things he does.

"I'm inspired by the God I serve, I am made in His image and I'm sure it's a positive one," he says. "I love people, and there's so much negativity in the world, we should be intentional on being grateful and spreading love whenever we can."

R'haan Thai Cuisine

While R'haan Thai Cuisine officially opened its doors in early August, owners Wanna and Surat Banthupong have always had a passion for cooking. They have been in the restaurant industry for over three decades as the family behind Simply Burgers, a local establishment with locations in Arlington, Mansfield and Fort Worth.

With the lease on the North Arlington location nearing its renewal date, the couple decided to explore a new direction and revisit their passion for cooking Thai food (the couple emigrated to Texas over 40 years ago).

Beginning in early summer 2021, an overhaul of the interior was initiated to create a more open and sophisticated experience for diners. The restaurant decor features a muted, simple color scheme and clean lines throughout but with a handpainted mural (by Sheri Lopez of That's Flippin' Smart Art) to give an unexpected burst of color. To recognize the hardwork of each of those individuals involved with the project (from the initial design to the completed project), and to welcome guests with a sampling of a few signature flavors, R'haan held an open house on August 9th. Doors officially opened on August 12th (Thai Mother's Day).

Since opening, guests have come from all over the DFW Metroplex (and beyond). Five-star reviews are beginning to pour in on Yelp, Google, and the restaurant's Facebook page. Favorite dishes include the Drunken Noodles (Pad Kee Mow), Salmon Curry, Garlic Prawns, and of course, Pad Thai. The desert menu features unique offerings such as Sticky Rice with Mango, Fried Ice Cream, and Black Rice Pudding. And, of course, no Thai meal would be complete without Thai Tea!

The R'hann family hopes that guests (especially the residents of Arlington and surrounding areas) will discover that they can have exceptional food and service without traveling far from home.

R'haan Thai Cuisine currently services Dine-In and Take-Out orders. With the ability to hold approximately 80 people in its dining room, large parties, celebrations, and other events are always welcome. Lunch is served from 11am-3pm and dinner is served from 5pm-9pm Monday through Saturday. Closed on Sunday. BYOB is also welcome!

Donna Smiedt

Donna Smiedt graduated from SMU Law School at the age of 21, becoming one of the youngest women to graduate at a time when less than a quarter of practicing lawyers were women. Ms. Smiedt opened her family law practice as a Solo Practitioner immediately after graduation. Since that time she has devoted her practice entirely to the area of Family Law, becoming Board Certified by the Texas Board of Specialization.

Ms. Smiedt has practiced exclusively in this area for over 30 years, assisting families suffering divorce and the break up of their families, always seeking to make this process as least devastating as possible. Among the many accolades in her career: Twice selected by her peers as a Superlawyer (an honor reserved for 5% of practicing lawyers in Texas) ... Voted by clients as an Avvo "Top Rated Lawyer" for many years, including 2020 and 2021 most recently ... Voted by peers as a Top Attorney in Fort Worth every year for over a decade. She also was named the favorite family lawyer by Arlington Today readers the past three years.

As an outspoken advocate for the best interest of the children going through high-conflict family law custody battles, Ms. Smiedt and her Non-Equity Partner, Desaray R. Muma, are both specially trained as Collaborative Lawyers, a form of family law litigation structured toward assisting parties in negotiating their own family agreements in private meetings removed from the courthouse application of judicial rulings and or jury decisions that can be arbitrary and unreliable. However, if all alternate dispute resolution methods fail, Ms. Smiedt has built her reputation as a specialist in the area of high-conflict custody litigation, especially with the explosion of Parental Alienation cases filed against the other parent peppered with false abuse claims in order to obtain an "upper hand" in custody or divorce proceedings. Not easy cases for the novice litigator, these intense and damaging allegations must be met with the rare but requisite expertise and experience Ms. Smiedt has in this burgeoning area of the law. This specialization coupled with her equally extensive knowledge of separate tracing and characterization cases, as well as representing wealthy clients with large complex estates or closely held family businesses, make her the first choice for many clients needing this level of superlative representation in the field of family law.

The Abbey Estate

When Arlington residents John and Kathryn Rhadigan purchased the renowned wedding/party/celebration location, The Abbey Estate, in Waxahachie in December of 2019, the transaction served as the culmination of a variety of family goals.

A celebration venue had long been a part of the couple's "Chapter Two - Empty Nest" plans, says Kathryn, who came into the venture with more than 20 years coordinating fundraising galas, banquets and receptions – just the sort of events for which The Abbey Estate is ideally suited. Additionally, John had served as one of the more requested Master of Ceremonies/Auctioneers in DFW for more than three decades – again, an ideal background for a business opportunity of this ilk.

"It doesn't hurt," Kathryn adds, "that we both LOVE a good party!"

Once the Abbey was acquired, Kathryn and John commenced tailoring the storied site to match their respective family members' talents and tastes. She takes care of venue operations, and John is responsible for finances and property maintenance. Friends and former coworkers rotate for events, and the Rhadigans' two young-adult children pitch in when their professional schedules allow.

While the pandemic wreaked havoc on conventional weddings initially, it did offer the Rhadigans time to work on property updates and to create and host COVID-compliant Elopement and Micro-Wedding Packages (celebrations for under 50 guests). Eventually, the couple has plans to add a Beer Pavilion and Graffiti Garden.

"We also look forward to welcoming retreats and small-ticketed events to our annual schedule," Kathryn notes. "Most of all, we look forward to future celebrations without masks or social distancing!"

While all forms of revelry will eventually take root at The Abbey Estate, it will always be known as "a great place to get married." To that end, brides and grooms will discover, if they haven't already, that there is a familiar face eager to help them exchange vows.

"Shortly before we purchased The Abbey, John was thrilled to serve as the officiant at the wedding of a dear family friend," Kathryn says. "We never imagined how useful his ordination papers would become! When the pandemic hit in March of 2020, our venue was limited to events of 10 guests or less. We had dozens of distraught couples whose long-planned celebrations were put on indefinite hold and who were looking for refunds. When one sobbing bride told me that she and her fiancé were going to the courthouse to get married because her grandmother had already embroidered their wedding date on a pillow – an idea was born. We immediately started offering complimentary elopements – complete with a local sportscaster officiant and cake and champagne reception – if couples agreed to move their larger celebration to a later date. It worked! I'm pretty sure most venue elopements don't include vows, cake and impromptu Q&As about the Rangers. But ours did at The Abbey Estate!"
