HOME SWEET! HOME

This house, built by Mansfield Custom Homes, has all the deluxe basics in place (and they're virtually timeless)

We hear a lot about houses having good bones, referring to the structural integrity of the home, and no doubt that is extremely important. But have you thought about a home having good bones in the sense that all the basics are in place and timeless, now all you have to do is accessorize? We think this home is a perfect example of this exact scenario and hope that it inspires you when you are building or remodeling to stick with classic, good bones and then showcase your style in the accessories.

This house has a well-blended balance of paint, stain, print, texture, openness, and coziness. We love the stained cabinets, unique built-ins and beams paired with the high-gloss cabinets and trim. The texture of the interior brick and the bold print of the tile are classic design elements. In 10 years, these aspects will still look amazing. Being able to accessorize this home with your particular style of furniture and décor will only bring out these features in an even bolder way. As styles change in décor, it will be easy to change out shapes and colors without having to change the design “bones” of this house.
