

Home SWEET! Home

The best recipes contain many spices, and a variety of styles and materials make for an interesting home. You may have heard designers encourage clients to pick what they really love, and it will all work together. This house helps illustrate how modern, industrial, elegant and mid-century modern can all play nice in design.

At first look, the drive up offers steel landscape beds, modern glass and steel, and traditional batten board siding. The concrete fireplace wall and industrial i-beams are joined together by elegant marble-look flooring and warmed by the wood beams gracing the ceiling.

There are several walls throughout where tile bejewels from floor to ceiling. Elegant cabinet details and luxury lighting soften the look. His and hers closets might be the favorite feature here if it weren't for the master bath with the barrel ceiling and magnificent chandelier.

If you spend more time in the kitchen, you will appreciate the enormous pantry and top-notch appliances. Even the garage has an artistic floor finish and its own air conditioning system.

Last, but certainly not least, you can appreciate the simplicity of the pool and the beautiful quartz surrounded grill. Turf makes the backyard lawn care easy and ensures no grass makes it into the pool. It appears every detail has been covered from outlet placement to custom cabinet designs.

For more: julie@mchtexas.com

Photos courtesy of Mansfield Custom Homes

His and hers closets might be the favorite feature here if it weren't for the master bath with the barrel ceiling and magnificent chandelier.

Mansfield Custom Homes' Julie Short leads a tour of this Modern Craftsman classic

