

The home of Sandra and George Campbell features an array of vistas, including the living area as viewed from upstairs. The spacious, 6,000-square-foot dwelling is ideal for entertaining, and the scene you experience when you step into the backyard is right out of a story book.

George and Sandra Campbell share their Interlochen dwelling with us this month

George and Sandra Campbell devoted their careers to enhancing the lives of residents and their offspring. So it's only appropriate that they now have the ideal home – in the enchanting Interlochen neighborhood – to help them devote time to themselves.

George was Arlington's City Manager from 1991-99 (after serving as Assistant City Manager eight years prior) and also worked in city management in Midland, Lubbock, Pampa, Coppell, Weatherford, Denton and Kennedale. Sandra taught at Arlington High School and was Assistant Dean of the University of Texas at Arlington's Honors College.

In 2017, when they chose to celebrate their retirement years in Interlochen, they soon discovered that their time of service was not quite over. Not in the area's most holiday-riffic neighborhood, anyway.

"It is the place where 300 to 400 kids come by on Halloween to get candy and other treats," Sandra says. "Traffic is bumper-to-bumper for miles, and no one cares. Everyone is having fun! Christmas brings miles of cars, too. It is fun and exhausting!"

The Campbells love that their 6,000-square foot, four-bedroom home features a spacious living room that is two stories high. Other highlights include one two-car garage and one three-car garage, wood floors (as well as an "amazing" tile floor in living room and dining room) two upstairs bedrooms with private baths, and a study. Downstairs, there's a Solarium that overlooks one part of the backyard where the pool is located.

Outdoors, beautiful huge trees line the property along the famous canal.

"It is a beautiful experience just to take our boat rides through the entire canal," Sandra says. "All the homes here are beautiful, unique and long-standing." A
